

The Badminton & Tennis Club A Brief History of the Club

In 1891, the Badminton & Tennis Club's half-timbered building at 52 Hemenway Street in the Back Bay originally housed the New Riding Club of Boston. In 1934, the structure became a true tennis and badminton club, with four cork badminton courts and two clay tennis courts. In 1940, the Massachusetts Squash Rackets Association offered to build 12 squash courts but the Badminton & Tennis Club (B&T) declined this offer. In 1947, noting waning interest in badminton, the B&T decided to set up a cork badminton court with a third tennis court on top. By 1955, the cork surface had deteriorated and was eventually removed in favor of a third permanent clay court.
